EDITOR'S NOTE

The numbering system used in this Environmental Health Code is similar to that used in the Ohio Revised Code and is consistent with general practice. Each section is self-identifying as to code, chapter and section number. For example, 220.02 indicates that the code number is 2, the chapter number is 220 (or the 20th chapter within code 2), and the section number is .02. The code and chapter numbers appear left of the decimal, with the code number preceding the first two digits left of the decimal, and the chapter number being the first two digits left of the decimal. The section number appears to the right of the decimal. As another example, 410.01 indicates that the code number is 4, the chapter number is 410 (or the 10th chapter within code 4), and the section number is .01.

With this numbering system the Code may be expanded almost endlessly. Codes, titles and chapters are initially even-numbered, thus reserving the use of odd numbers for future legislation. Sections within chapters are consecutively numbered, except that penalty provisions are usually assigned the number .99, as in the Revised Code. Newly created sections subsequent to the original codification may be indicated by three digits right of the decimal in the event the law properly belongs between two consecutively numbered sections. For example, newly created 610.041, 610.042 and 610.043 follow 610.04 and precede 610.05 to be placed in their logical position.

Section histories enable a user to trace the origin of the law contained in the section. The history indicates the derivation by reference to either its passage date and the resolution number originally assigned to it at that time, or to its inclusion in any prior code.

The Comparative Section Table is included to show the disposition of every resolution included in this Environmental Health Code up to the 1991 revision (Resolution 81-91 adopted 7/9/91.) It indicates whether a given resolution was consolidated with another into one section or split into two or more sections. Cross references direct the user to subject matter reasonably related to material contained within a given chapter.

All resolutions since 1991 are listed after each section, subsection or chapter.

Chapters in which all sections were adopted by the same resolution will have the adopting resolution listed only at the end of the chapter.

The following abbreviations are used in the Environmental Code:

ORC — Ohio Revised Code
OAC — Ohio Administrative Code
